

Collective Redress Deed

BETWEEN THE CROWN AND MARUTŪĀHU IWI

General background

The Marutūāhu Iwi are Ngāti Maru, Ngāti Pāoa, Ngāti Tamaterā, Ngaati Whanaunga and Te Patukirikiri (Marutūāhu Iwi). These five closely related iwi total approximately 15,000 recorded members (according to 2013 Census figures) and their interests extend from Mahurangi in the north to the Bay of Plenty in the south.

The Marutūāhu Iwi Collective Redress Deed (the Deed) will provide the Marutūāhu Iwi with collective cultural and commercial redress in Tāmaki Makaurau, Mahurangi and Hauraki Gulf/Tikapa Moana.

The settlement of the iwi-specific historical Treaty of Waitangi claims for each Marutūāhu Iwi will occur with their individual iwi deeds of settlement. These deeds of settlement were agreed in separate negotiations between the Crown and each iwi in parallel to the collective negotiations.

Collective negotiations for collective redress commenced in July 2009. On 17 May 2013, the Marutūāhu Iwi and the Crown entered into a Record of Agreement.

On 27 July 2018, the Crown and Marutūāhu Iwi initialled the Deed. The Deed is subject to ratification by the members of the Marutūāhu Iwi and conditional on the enactment of legislation.

The Office of Treaty Settlements, with the support of the Department of Conservation, Land Information New Zealand and other government agencies, represented the Crown in day-to-day negotiations.

The Minister for Treaty of Waitangi Negotiations represented the Crown in high-level negotiations with the Marutūāhu Iwi.

Summary of the Marutūāhu Collective Redress

Questions and Answers

1. What is the total redress package?

The redress package includes cultural and commercial redress. There is no financial redress associated with the Deed. The Marutūāhu Iwi will receive financial redress (and cultural and commercial redress) through their iwi deeds of settlement.

2. Is there any private land involved?

No.

3. Are the public's rights affected?

No. Nothing will change for the public. Public access, recreational use, reserve status and existing third party rights are maintained.

4. Are any place names changed?

No. Some existing geographic names may change through the individual deeds of settlement of the Marutūāhu Iwi.

5. What is a statutory acknowledgement?

A statutory acknowledgement acknowledges areas or sites with which iwi have a special relationship, and will be recognised in any relevant proceedings under the Resource Management Act. These provisions aim to avoid past problems where areas of significance to Māori, such as burial grounds, were simply cleared or excavated for public works or similar purposes without permission or consultation with iwi. A statutory acknowledgement does not convey a property right and is not exclusive.

6. What happens to memorials on private titles?

The legislative restrictions (memorials) placed on the title of Crown properties and some former Crown properties now in private ownership will be removed once all Treaty claims in the area have been settled.

7. When will the Deed take effect?

The Deed will take effect following the enactment of legislation.

8. Does the Collective have the right to come back and make further claims about the behaviour of the Crown in the 19th and 20th centuries?

The historical claims of the Marutūāhu Iwi will be settled through their iwi deeds of settlements.

When these iwi deeds are signed and settlement legislation is passed they will be final and comprehensive settlements of all historical (relating to events before 21 September 1992) Treaty of Waitangi claims of the Marutūāhu Iwi.

The settlements will still allow the Marutūāhu Iwi to pursue claims against the Crown for acts or omissions after 21 September 1992 including claims based on the continued existence of aboriginal title of customary rights. The Crown also retains the right to dispute such claims or the existence of such title rights.

9. Who benefits from the settlement?

All members of those Marutūāhu Iwi who sign the Deed are able to be beneficiaries of the redress, wherever they may now live.
